Theme parks, resorts have kicked off Halloween events and attractions

There are 1,500 to 2,000 haunted attractions in the United States, according to the Haunted Attraction Association, many kicking off right after Labor Day and staying open through November.

Terror Behind the Walls. Guests at Eastern State Penitentiary in Philadelphia become part of the experience with enhanced interactive experiences, and six new secret rooms where visitors will be challenged to step further into the story, to become part of the action, and ultimately, to escape the massive haunted prison.

Wisconsin Fear Grounds in Waukesha, Wisconsin, adds to the scares with Twisted, a 20,000 square-foot haunted house, and a new Oct. 8 overnight outdoor event "Night Terrors" that will allow guests to experience 13 hours of fear.

"Fortress of Nightmares in Newport, Rhode Island, provides 3-D glasses to visitors as they walk through the South Wall of historic Fort Adams for a fear that will travel through dimensions.
